TUESDAY, JULY 11, 1882.

"Yes, Sir, I'd Shoot Him."

Six or eight congenial spirits sat around a stove in a Grand River grocery the other night and after several other subjects had been exhausted some one introduced that of panics in churches, theaters and halls. This gave Mr. Hopewell a chance to remark:

"Gentlemen, I just long to be there."

"Where?"

"Why, in one of those panics. Yes, sir, I'd give a new twenty dollar bill to be in the theater one night when there was an occasion for a panic."

"Why?"

"Why, because one cool, level headed man could stop the thing as easily as you could end up that barrel of flour."

"Well, I dunno about that," observed one of the sitters. "There is something awful in the cry of fire, and hear it where and when you may it startles and frightens. What would you do in a theater in case there was a cry of fire and a rush?"

"I'd stand upon my seat, pull a revolver from my pocket, and shout out that I'd shoot the first man who attempted to crowd or rush. One cool man would check the panic in ten seconds."

While the subject was being continued the grocer withdrew to the rear end of the store, poured a little powder on a board, and gave three or four men the wink. Directly there was a bright flash, yells of "fire!" and "powder!" and every man sprang up and rushed. Hopewell didn't spring up and talk of shooting. On the contrary, he fell over a lot of baskets piled between him and the door, got up to plow his way over a rack of brooms, and when he reached the sidewalk he was on all fours, white as a ghost, and so frightened that he never looked back until he reached the opposite side of the street.

Steam power for propelling horse cars has been definitely given up in Paris. After an experiment lasting three years, steam power has been found to be more costly, all things considered, when an allowance is made for accidents and damages therefrom in both cases.

PORT TOWNSEND, June 21st.—A letter from Peterson's Point, Chahalls County, W. T., states that a schooner bearing the name of St. George of San Francisco, loaded with lumber, went ashore about seven miles from the mouth of Shoalwater bay on the 13th of June, bottom up. The St. George left this place on the 1st of February for Kodiak, with lumber and shingles. She was about 100 tons burden, and was owned by A. M. McIntyre. All hands are probably lost.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 21st.—An important discovery of a Nihilist's was made on Vasil Island, where 49 persons were arrested, including military men and others of position. A large quantity of dynamite was seized, and also a mass of correspondence and plans of the Kremlin at Moscow.

The balloon let loose in England on Saturday week before last landed in France, after a long trip. The journey by air across the Channel is now no novelty, having been performed nearly a century ago; still, there is a revival of interest in it, so that it has been tried three times within as many months.
